Bio

Jenny Walden has been involved in Art and Design Education for a number of years at the University of Portsmouth both teaching and as an Associate Dean. She has more recently been undertaking the Associate Dean role in the Faculty of Technology at Portsmouth. Moving across these distinct territories has led to her to apply her research in critical theory and art practice to further interests in different pedagogies and processes of learning. Jenny has given papers on pedagogy related topics in the last two years at HEA, NAFAE, and Drawing Network events, for example.
